MY TEACHING PRINCIPLES:

Be in command of your subject and be able to present it as clearly and concisely as possible. Use pertinent clinical applications for emphasis when appropriate. Be able to justify the relevance to Medicine of all assigned material. Make efficient use of laboratory time. Most students remember longer and better what they have seen in laboratory than what they have heard in long formal lectures. Attention span is in inverse proportion to the length and dryness of the lecture and the hardness of the seats.

Set standards of learning high but be reasonable about it. Don't forget to look at things from a student's viewpoint as well as your own. Always be available to discuss problems with students.

A little humor now and then helps.

Clifford A. Beck, M.D.

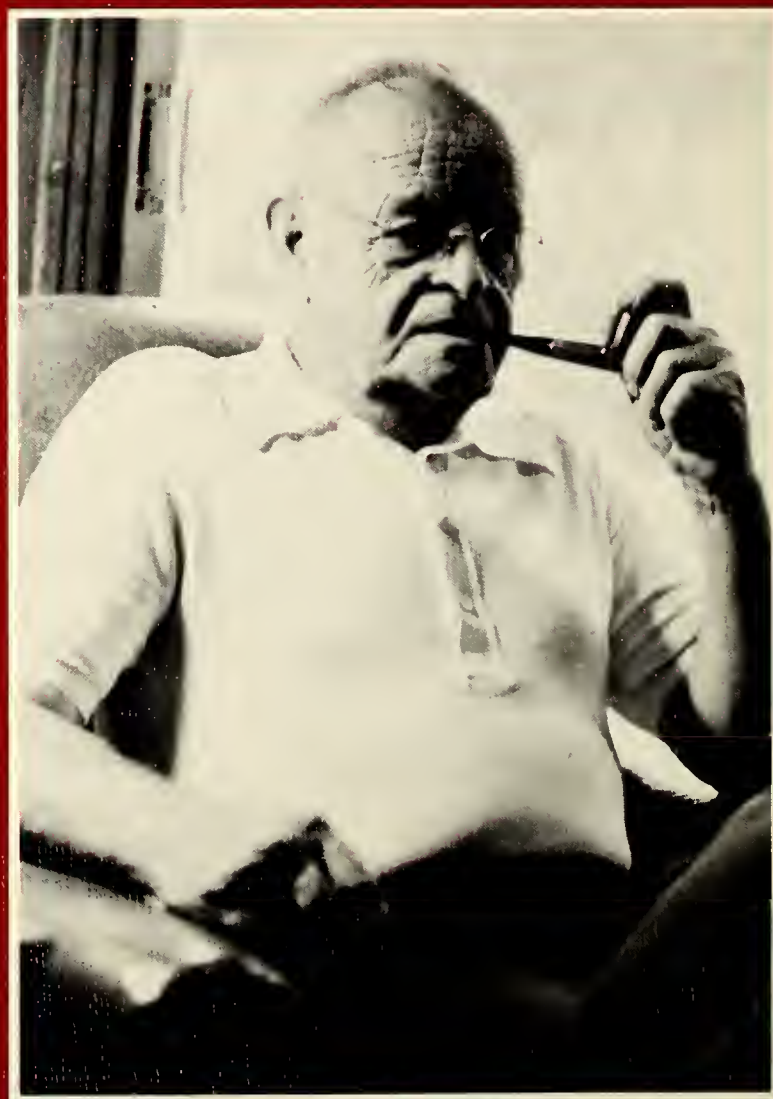

"He simply went out of his way to be sure his students were treated fairly."
 WILLIAM M. WILDER, M.D.

"He was hard but fair."
 BILLY D. MCKELLAR, M.D.

"From time to time, we would go to Dr. Reed with downcast hearts . . . We were routinely uplifted from our despair by his understanding counsel."
 WILLIAM R. GIDDENS, M.D.

Now THAT'S all of the parotid!

"I must give some of the credit to his wonderful wife, Mrs. Reed. She has also been an inspiration to many struggling young medical students and young physicians."

D. F. OVERDYKE, JR., M.D.

Thanks for the cookies, Mrs. Reed!

"I recall very well a day in the anatomy laboratory when my partner and I were completely stalled with a dissection of the facial nerve as it courses through the parotid gland. Dr. Reed simply sat down during a busy day, performed the dissection in a few minutes and asked us if he could be of any further help."

WILLIAM R. GIDDENS, M.D.

He's only a teacher, but he's a great one. He's a great teacher.

WILLIAM R. GIDDENS, M.D.

to be a Physician

Thy eternal providence has appointed me to watch over the life and health of Thy creatures. May the love for my art actuate me at all times; may neither avarice nor miserliness, nor thirst for glory, or for a great reputation engage my mind; for the enemies of truth and philanthropy could easily deceive me and make me forgetful of my lofty aim of doing good to Thy children.

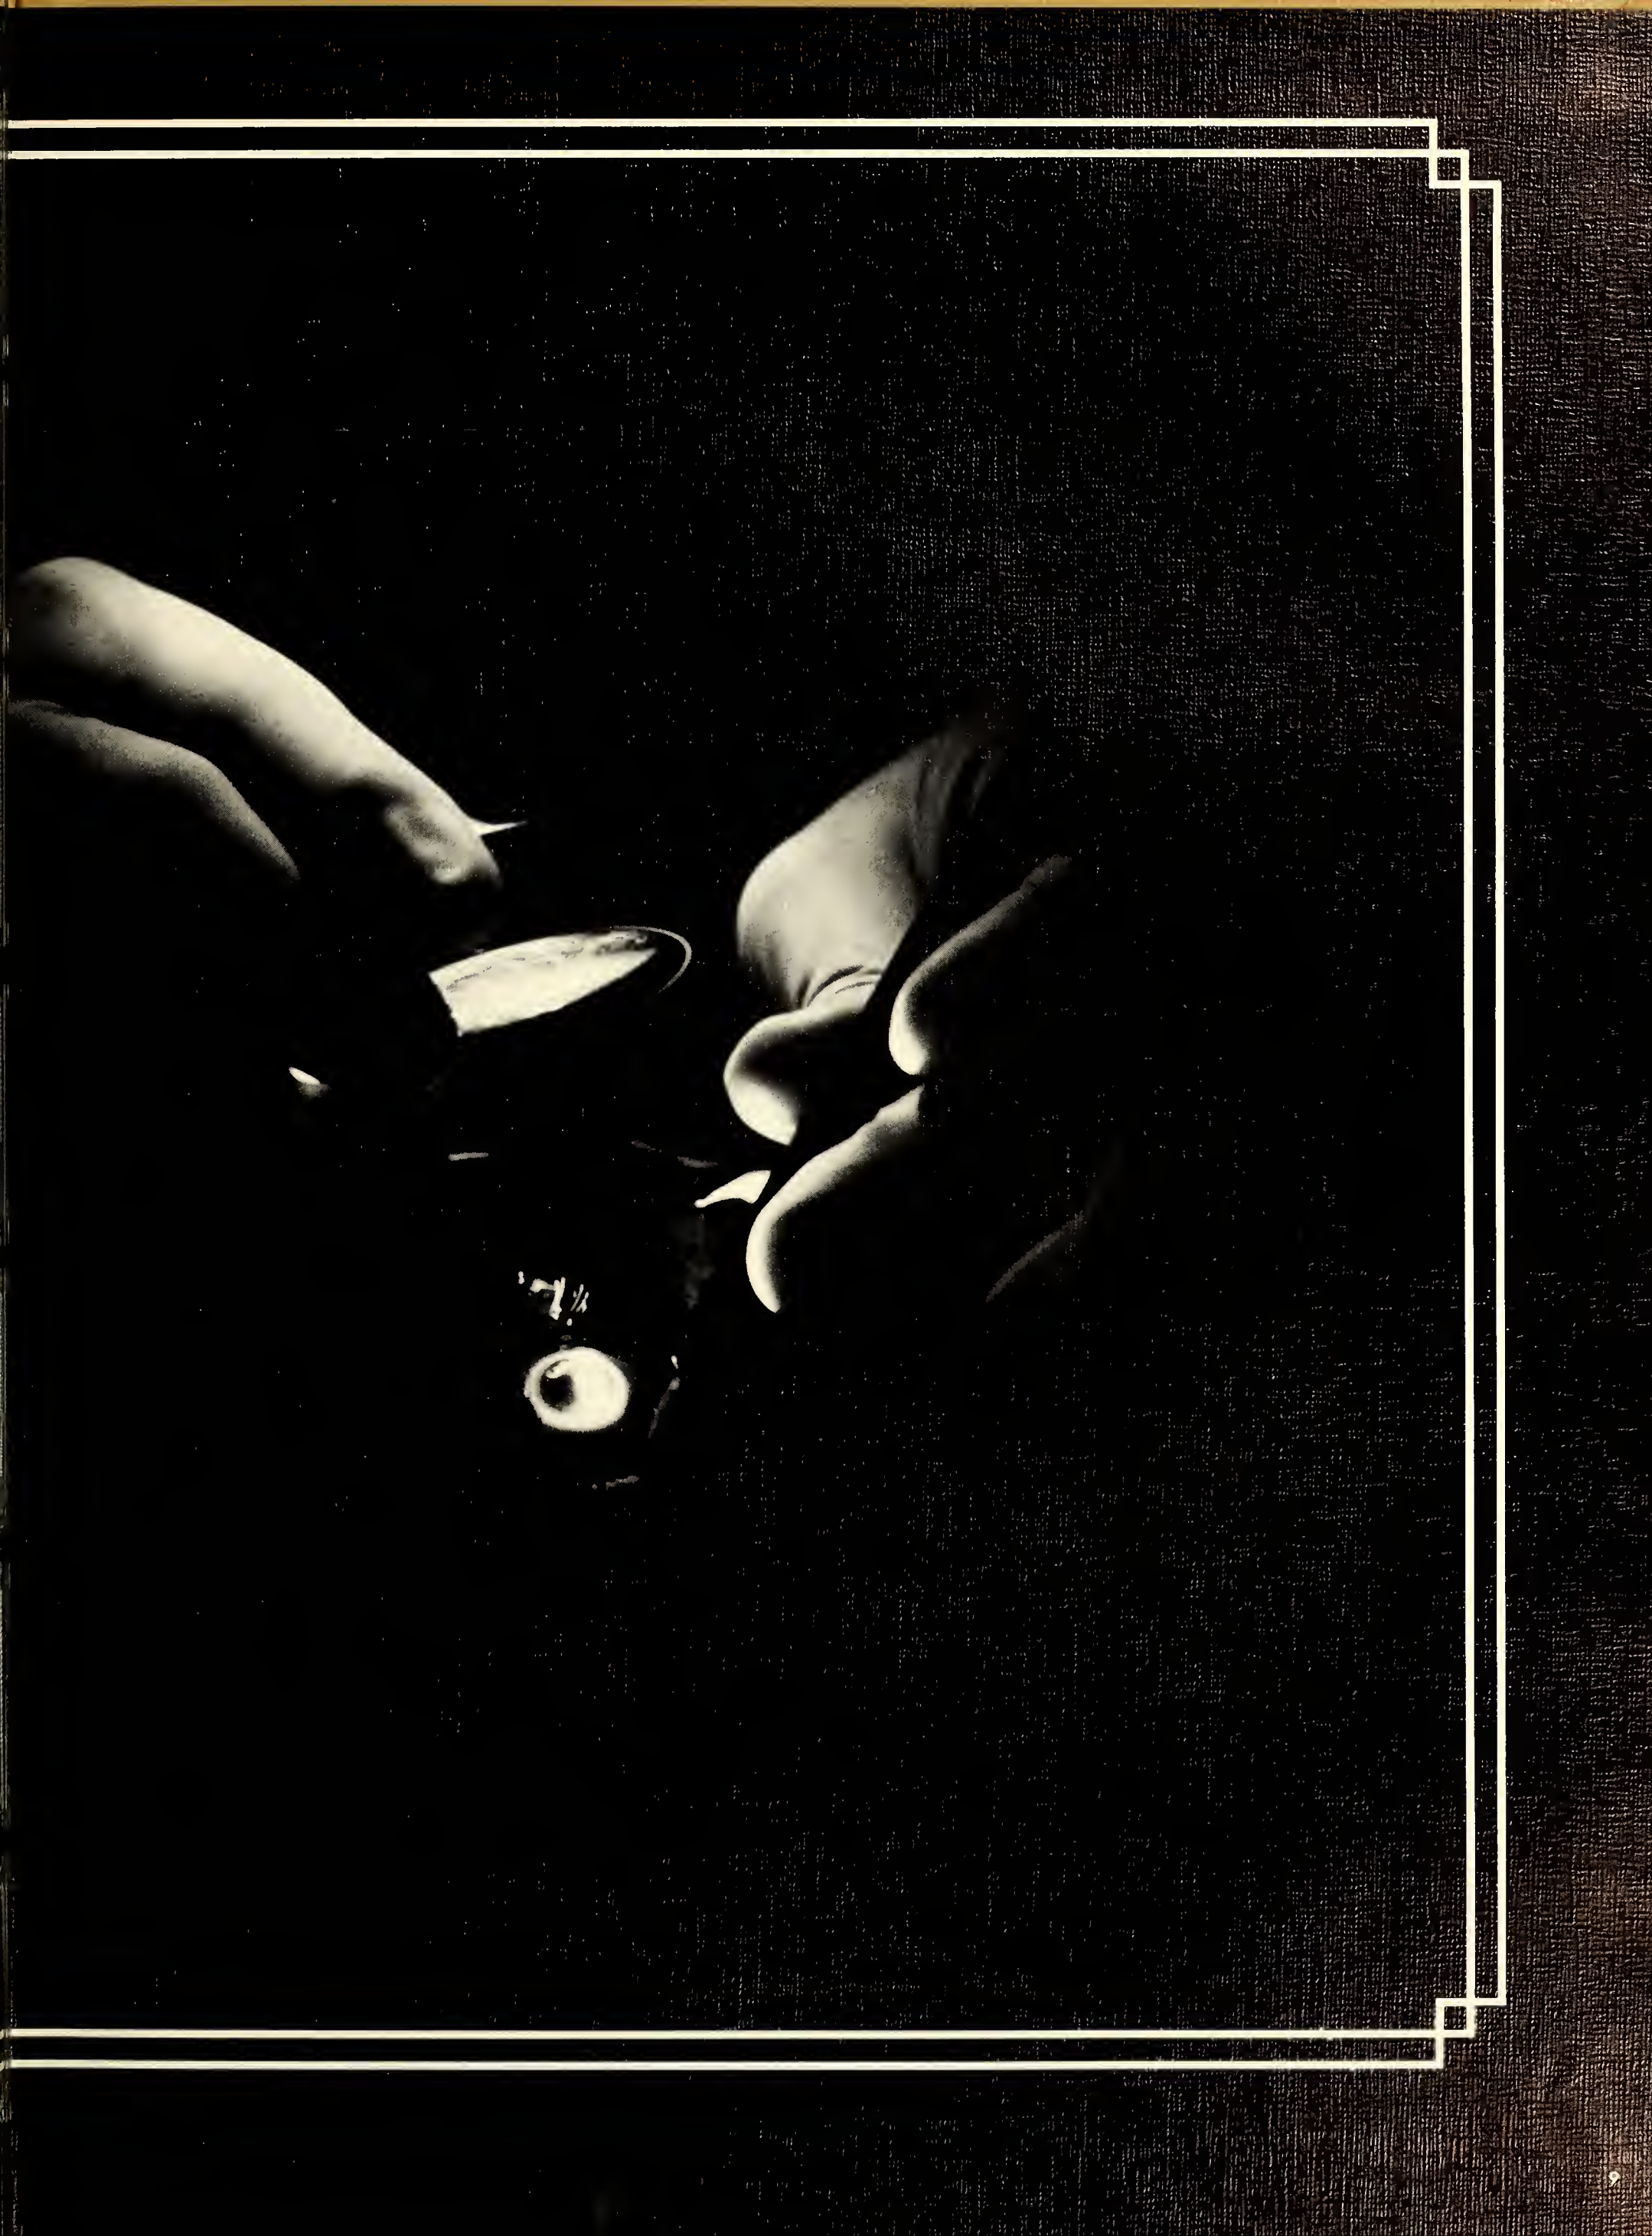

May I never see in the patient anything else but a fellow creature in pain.

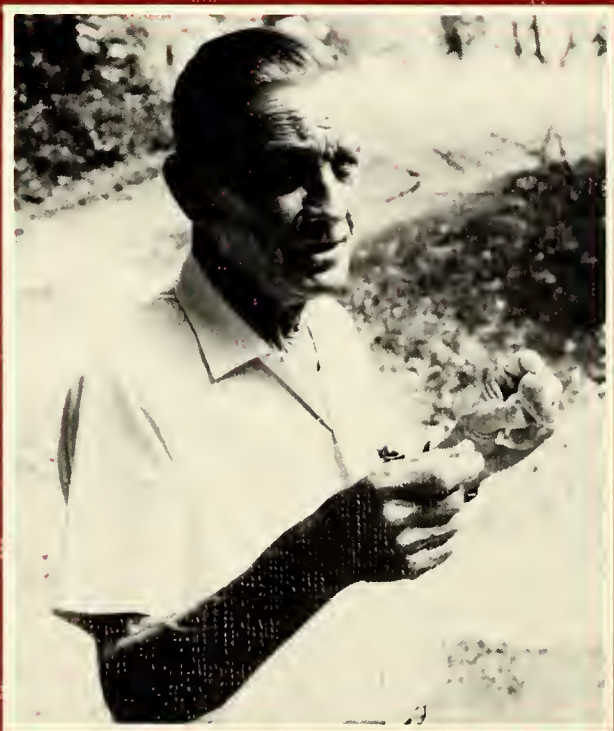

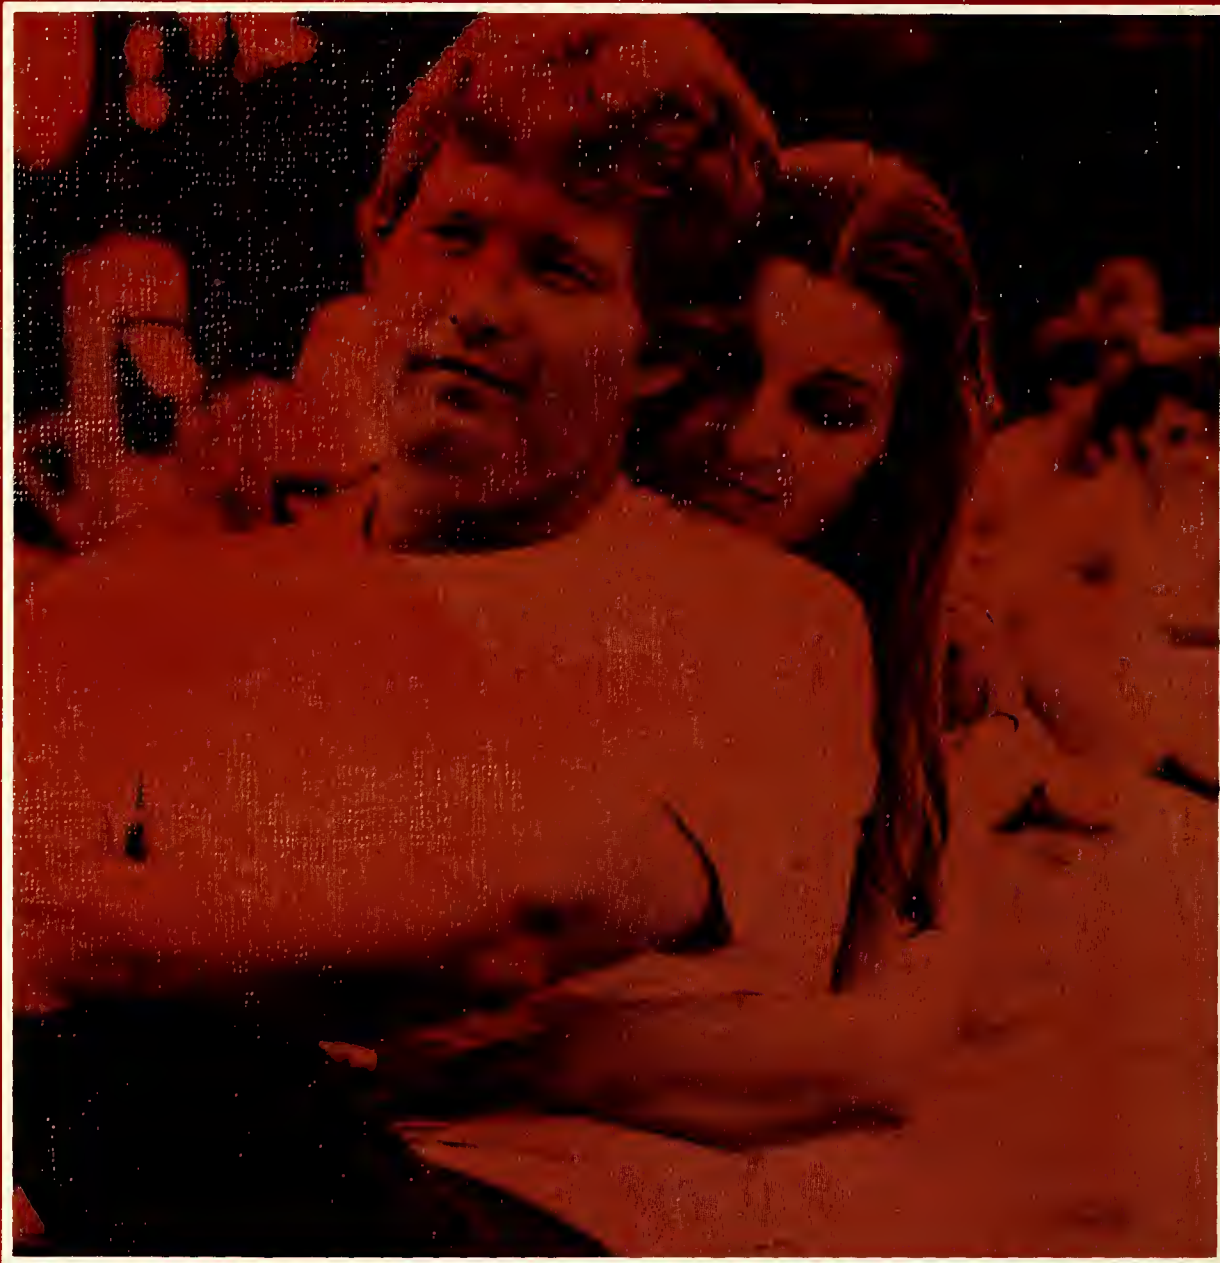

Grant me strength, time and opportunity always to correct what I have acquired, always to extend its domain; for knowledge is immense and the spirit of man can extend indefinitely to enrich itself daily with new requirements.

Today he can discover his errors of yesterday and tomorrow he may obtain a new light on what he thinks himself sure of today.

Oh, God, Thou hast appointed me to watch over the life and death of Thy creatures; here am I ready for my vocation and now I turn unto my calling. Guide me in this immense work so that it may be of avail.

Each year, we see many people parking these oversized trucks on our parking lots. Some are bringing their belongings to their new domicile, others are departing for yet another school or hospital. Yet in that brief time we spend here at Linwood, we find a way to make it our home. We return there each day to occupy our time in many endeavors.

freshmen win

The Freshmen began their domination of this year's intramural competition by a hard-won victory on the hardcourt. In the finals the Freshman "A" Team defeated the Sophomore "A" Team, last year's champs. Most Valuable Player, David Wallace, received the winner's trophy from Dr. Warren Grafton, "Honorary Scorekeeper." Freshman "A" Team members were David Wallace, Ken Ellzey, Mike Lowery, Carl Luikart, Tommy Cadenhead, Eddie Anglin, and David Barnes.

frosh win again

In the 2nd Annual Infirmary Golf Classic the defending Junior team was defeated by the Freshmen. Johnny Craig, David Pou, and Fred Knight compiled a best score of 68 compared to the Junior's best score of 69.

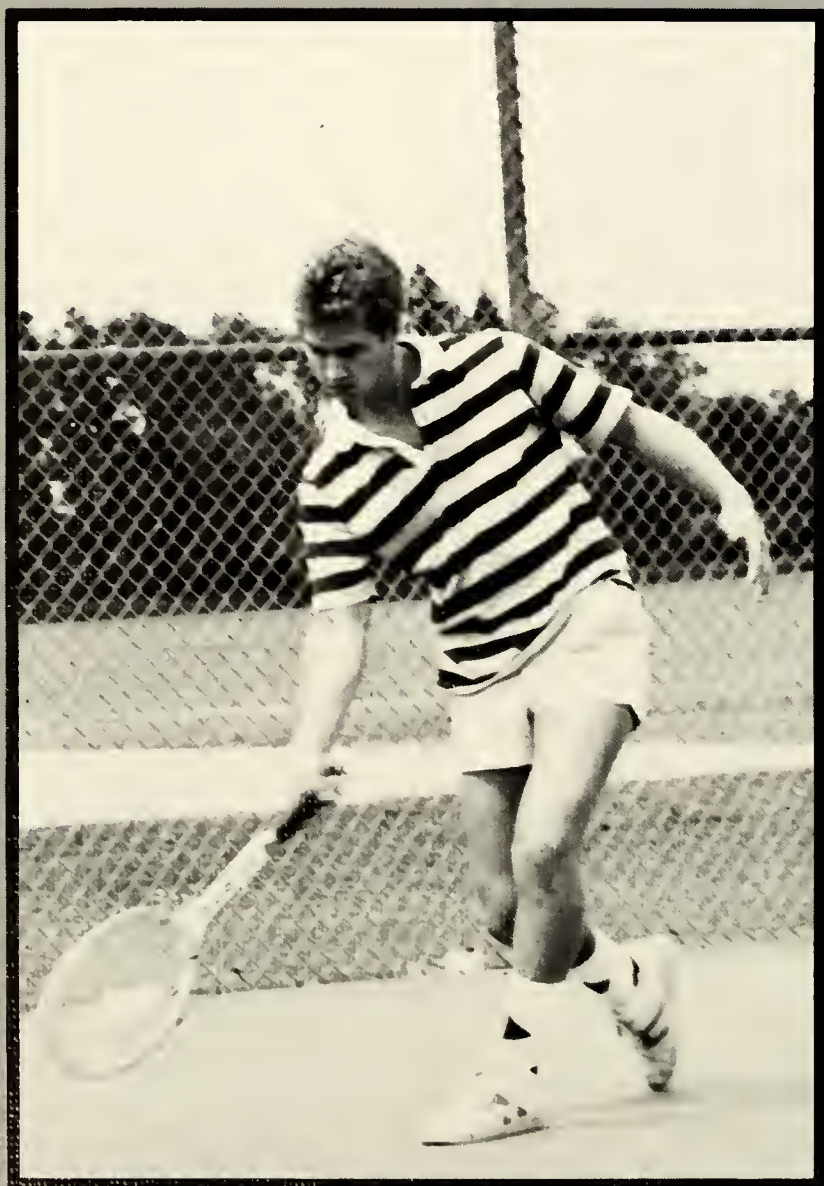

damn freshmen

In the Fall, Steve White and Tom Deas teamed up to win the doubles tournament, but in the Spring it was again Freshman all the way — i.e. John Cotter all the way. In his first four matches Cotter lost only three games. In the finals he defeated Mac Griffith 6-2, 6-1. Unseeded Casey Vague and 3rd seed Scott Mighell also reached the semi-finals.

SENIORS

“. . . LEST WE FORGET . . .”

In September, 1973, we began the career deemed by many to be one of the most challenging and rewarding of all vocations. In the years that followed there were many events that were important to some individuals yet trivial to others. Thus, although it is difficult to discuss specific events, one time period stands out for all of us. It seems appropriate that as we experience the end of our medical school career that we recall the beginning — Dr. Reed and gross anatomy.

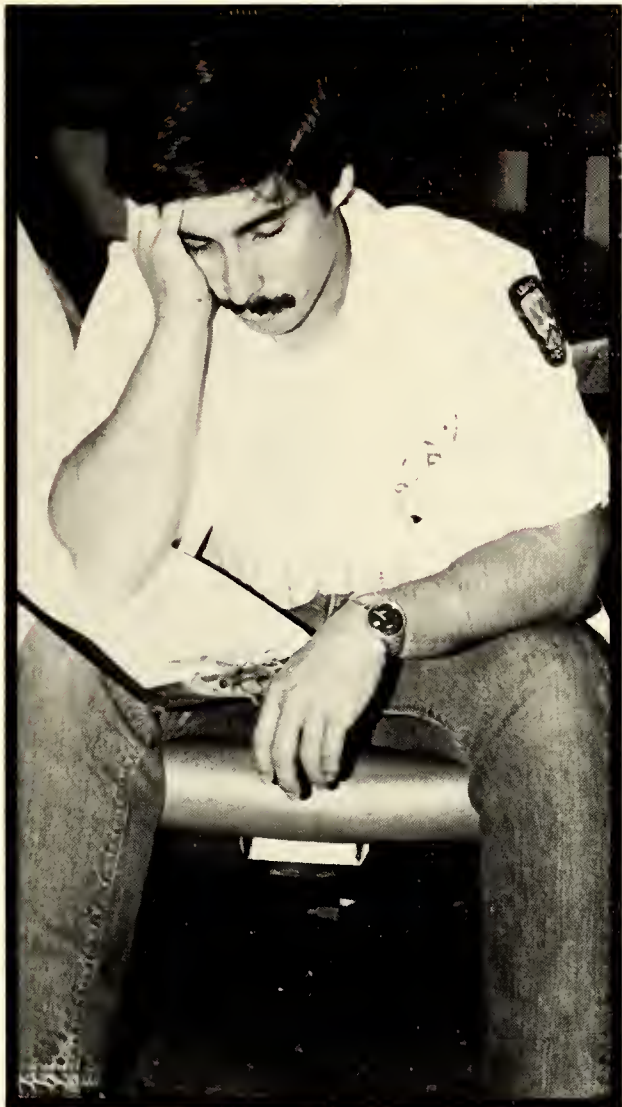

We were eager, optimistic, yet fearful first-year students. We were anxious about proving to others as well as to ourselves that we were indeed M.D. material. Each of us felt some doubt, but eagerly we thrust our hands and minds into our work. We began anatomy with Dr. Adrian F. Reed, our mentor and our very first medical school role model. Dr. Reed epitomized the physician-academician to us. He was an M.D. yet he was a Ph.D. He bridged the gap between the university and the medical center. He commanded our fear, our respect, and our devotion. Dr. Reed's goal was that medical education be enjoyable and practical as well as enlightening — all without being pedantic.

Through his urgings we soon learned to “think deep to the skin.” He patiently and steadily guided us through those early days that seemingly would never end but finally did become a week, then a month and more months. Curiously, though, Dr. Reed's anatomy course was a family affair; talking, looking, searching, laughing (softly), working together, willingly sharing our newly found knowledge of anatomy. And just as we would begin to feel over-confident, Dr. Reed would quickly bring us back to the real world. Our memories of anatomy with Dr. Reed and Dr. Penny are strong and equally strong is the foundation they helped us to build. We will not forget.

And finally, as surely as we came in September, 1973, now in May, 1977 we prepare to leave. The final honing and climax of our medical education should never occur, however. As we continue to read and study, we will become the perpetual students that medicine requires. For medicine is not only challenging it is also demanding and calls for our constant vigil to maintain that high level of competence.

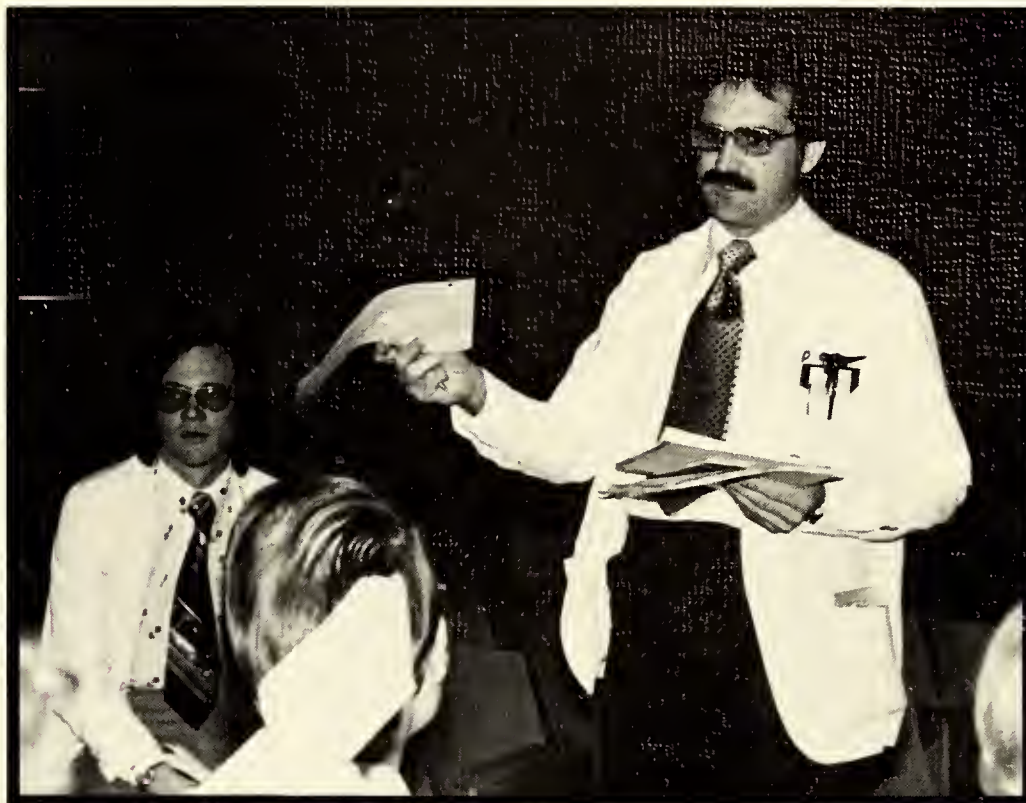

During our tenure here we have certainly had some bad times as well as the good times. But only an absence from this place, a sojourn in another, and a pensive recollection and review of the persons and experiences will modify our opinions and bestow perspective to our memories. Hopefully, over the ensuing years any unhappiness will surely fade, and the good times and memorable events will be burnished as bright silver or gold.

OH THAT SINKING FEELING

Junior: Gee! Wow! Clinical experience.

Resident: Yea, you are really where it's at now.

Intern: We have a good patient that just came in — a diabetic, hypertensive in ketoacidosis, CHF, and renal shutdown.

Resident: OK, let's get the team rolling. I'll go upstairs and read about it.

Intern, you go take care of the patient. Junior, you run for the lab and X-rays after you stamp these 53 cards and draw 14 blood cultures. When you get back in an hour or two, you can read the chart and see what happened.

First Day

Resident: This is how it is according to the book.

Junior: But Dr. Authority says different.

Resident: Don't believe everything you hear.

Second Day

Resident: This is how it is according to Dr. Authority.

Junior: But the book says different.

Resident: You know, you seem to have trouble catching on.

Resident: It's 3:45 p.m. and we just got a patient. There is a lot of work we need to do.

Intern: Where is our Junior student?

Student: (crawling from beneath a bed) I need to go to 4 o'clock lecture.

Resident: Well, it's up to you to decide which is more important.

Attending: You are the most outstanding med-student ever to come here.

Junior: I am truly honored.

Head of the Department: You get a B+ + because your tie wasn't straight on several occasions and you missed one too many questions on the final — tough luck. I hope there are no hard feelings. I will write you a good recommendation.

SOPHOMORES

the

"LSUMC REDNECK COOKBOOK"

featuring

a special section on Sophomore delights

Complete in one package

Cookbooks are available for the Path, Micro, and Medicine entrées
Please follow these instructions in preparing the individual delicacies:

1. If you find the "Kotcher Pie" to be too crusty or nothing but mold, don't worry, it's supposed to be that way.
2. Be careful not to add too much fluid to the dehydrated "Dr. Smith" as this will cause E-DE-MA
3. The "Dr. Grafton Sauce" is best when served hot over a fresh can of Wilson Tennis Balls.
4. The "Manno Antacid and Laxative" included in this package has been known to produce anxiety as a side effect.
5. Those of you with better judgement will leave the canned "Dr. Ritchie" unopened. It makes an excellent doorstop, or, if you like, can be combined with other Psychiatry entrées to form a fine organic fertilizer.
6. Although there is not much of the "Dr. Breffeilh Appetizers," you will enjoy its spicy Cajun flavor.
7. Caution! Do not open the "Dr. Hargrove's Livers and Tripes" unless wearing a tie.
8. Please notice that most of the cans marked Surgery are empty.
9. Do not bother to save any leftover "Lindsay" or "Paine" as they will not be served again.

If you've never had this dish before, bon appetit! If you've come back for seconds, our apologies. Either way, it's bound to give you indigestion.

SOPHOMORE GATHERINGS

You stole this for me?

Happy birthday, Rick.

The Vitrano Family.

FRESHMEN

WE MADE IT . . .

The Class of 80 — actually we started with ninety-six but like the faculty, some kept dropping off. But by far we'll be remembered as a class of accomplishments.

We were the first mega class to begin on time and the only class to quit with the first warm weather of spring. If only we had attended Dr. McElroy's lectures we could all pass the FLEX next year.

We were the class voted most likely to learn histology in absentia. So great was our exodus that the great miracle — the parting of the elevator doors — took place many times. In the words of Mike Lowery, "Let me go that I may lead my people to the land of milk and honey buns." In an effort to bring histology to more freshmen next year, closed circuit TV's will be set up in the cafeteria and pool room.

The rigid schedule of a physician's "weal world" was presented to the class in the form of two-hour Biometry tests that required four hours to complete, even with "cheat sheets" and calculators. But we went through with flying colors. If we learned nothing else we learned that Arnold Schwassenauger is alive and living in Dr. Walker's body and Buggs Bunny is alive and living in his mouth. What's up Doc?

Several class members were involved in research, the most outstanding success being achieved by John Tomarchio, B.S. Mr. Tomarchio proved that homotropic enzymes exist through preference, not as some psychosexual peculiarity. This is of course exactly contradictory to Dr. Kennedy's "Lack of Phosphate" theory to explain the same phenomenon.

Dr. Hibb's research, in conjunction with John Gregorio, revealed the following insights regarding word origins of everyday medical terms:

Claustrum means shield in Latin.

Clawson means clumsy in Greek.

Calcar Avis means rent-a-car in Aegean.

Penny means walk through the thalamus in any language.

The first Krewe of Gross rolled Mardis Gras day along its designated route, on time, before one and a half million wildly screaming revellers. So magnificent was the extravaganza that the 1978 Rex parade has been cancelled. Instead, spectators will be bussed from New Orleans to Shreveport next year.

But we can't forget the Cadaver Ball. Is Guillory straight? Is Girouard crazy? Is Reed the greatest? He must be. You don't see Dr. Greer fishing with a new Mercury outboard — just walking his Scotty dog.

Our greatest achievement, however, was not the fun, or hard work or firedrills in the middle of Gross Lab. Instead our greatest achievement was a combination of all these factors to produce class pride encouraged by class unity. Here lies our strength and goal for the future.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

This year the student body enjoyed the benefits of a diligent and active Executive Council. The many accomplishments of the Council contributed to the enjoyment and well-being of all the students. In addition to the SYNAPSE, the Council published the "Medical Student Desk Reference," a handbook for incoming freshmen.

Three school-wide parties were given — the Linwood street dance, the Casino party, and the party at VA park.

Four intramural tournaments were held in golf, basketball, and singles and doubles tennis. A ski trip to Taos, New Mexico during the Christmas break was also planned.

The most worthy achievement was the adoption of an honor code which established an honor council with the responsibility of promoting the high sense of personal honor and integrity which is the tradition of the medical profession.

Barron O'Neal leads the council in a round table discussion with the Dean.

Ray Scardina, Asst. Editor
Melanie Sanders, Asst. Editor

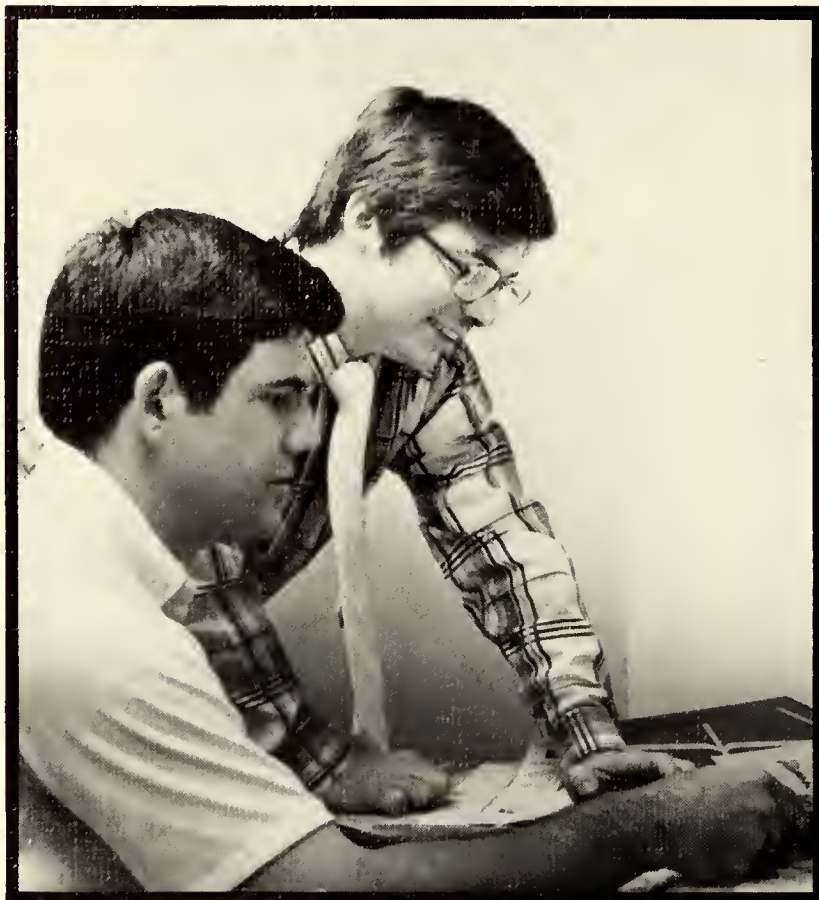

AMSA

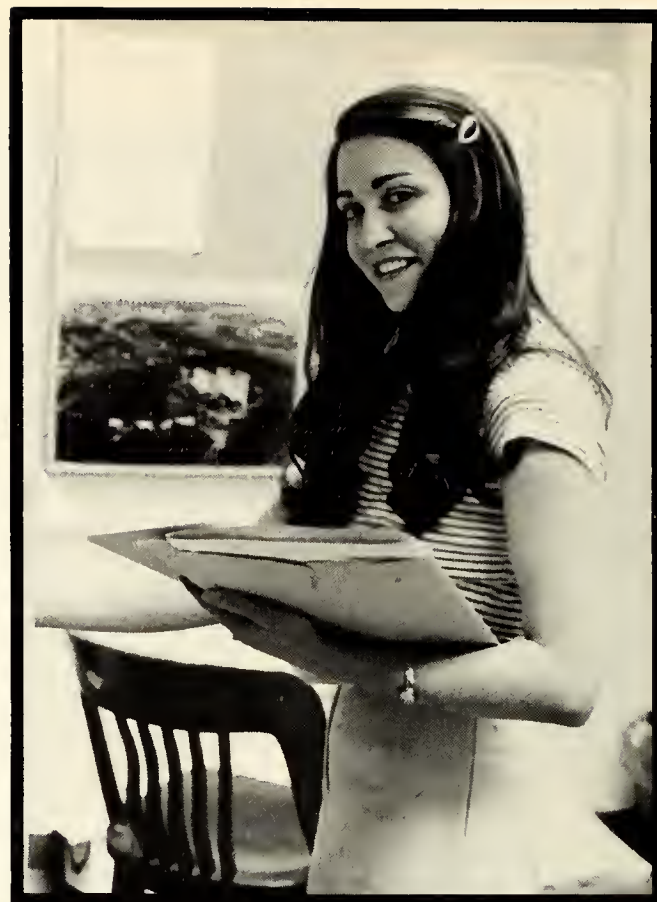

Marguerite Poreda, Treasurer; Germaine Odenheimer, V. President; Roger Cadieux, President. Bill Overdyke, Secretary (not pictured).

This year was the first year that we have had an active chapter of AMSA. The need for such representation in national student activities was seen by last year's Executive Council. One of AMSA's major accomplishments this year was establishing a preceptorship in Natchitoches supported by the AMSA Foundation.

Without the support of Mr. Jim Pieper, Director of Medical Communications, and the diligent efforts of his staff shown here, 80% of this book would be blank pages. Thank you for your quality work.

The PULSE Staff

Dr. Rogers, who is currently President of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, spoke on the topic "The Challenge of Primary Care." Here he chats with Dr. Lowenstein, Chapter Councillor, Dean Muslow, and David McKowen prior to his talk.

District Judge John Ballard speaks on Christian citizenship.

Cleatice Sipes, BSU Director, teaches a little Hebrew at Thursday lunch.

This year's high point was the Medical Missions Conference held at LSU-MC in Shreveport. The conference attracted over 75 students in medically related fields.

In addition, there were lunch talks, basketball, and family fun nights to help relieve the frustrations of medical school life.

At the Medical Missions Conference medical missionary Dr. Charles Norwood answers questions from students interested in missions.

THE IMPASSE

Medical School is far from perfect
As all who attend would agree;
But what is lacking is the verdict
Concerning just who is guilty.

'The staff', or 'the system', some would shout
Or the Dean of dubious fame;
And some, I'm sure, would just walk about
Not knowing who to blame.

It's this course or that course that's not well instructed
And so what if it were;
The '79 class would likely disrupt it
(I'm sure all informed would concur).

So it seems to me an impasse exists
In this domain of so noble a future;
That the students herein would likely resist
If they each had their very own tutor!

Thus to those who dissent this wise advice —
'To stay is your own decision' —
You're a prisoner of your own device
In this school of the budding physician.

So when you point that lofted finger
At those you determine at fault —
Perhaps your mind should stop and linger.
It's true you got what you sought.

parting shots

In Memoriam

Yet not to thine eternal resting-place
Shalt thou retire alone, nor couldst thou wish
Couch more magnificent. Thou shalt lie down
With patriarchs of the infant world — with kings,
The powerful of the earth — the wise, the good,
Fair forms, and hoary seers of ages past,
All in one mighty sepulchre . . .
